

For ten thousand years, governments have denied every person's basic right to own and operate his own life - resulting in distortion, mayhem, destruction, misery and death; in the 20th Century alone they murdered 160 million people supposedly under their "protection." During the 2010s and early 2020s Americans learned how to manage without them, and in 2027 the last remaining government employee walked out of his office and turned out the light. Then began the most thrilling experiment in human history: FREEDOM!

Time-traveler Jim Davies reports for us in A Vision of Liberty how the new era progressed in its first three years. Jim was raised in England and has a Master's from Cambridge, as a member of the college where Sir Isaac Newton found how gravity works, where Lord Acton taught that "power corrupts, and absolute power corrupts absolutely."

Advance Praise for "A Vision of Liberty":

Utterly wonderful. Thank you for this. It's just the kind of inspiration so lacking in libertarian literature.

Brian Nickerson

Jim nailed it. This is what life in freedom would be like.

Anthony I S Alexander, collaborator in the creation of the Tannehills' classic, The Market for Liberty.

'Where there is no vision, the people perish.' - Jim has removed that danger.
